Leo Frank Is Unruffled As Relative Tells Him New Trial Is Refused

Convicted Man, With Wife by His Side, Receives News of Judge Roan's Action Without Sign of Emotion

Leo M. Frank received calmly the news that a new trial had been denied him, according to Leonard Haas, one of the attorneys of the man who is in the Fulton County Jail.

The news was conveyed to the prisoner by Mr. Selig, his brother-in-law. Mr. Selig went straight from the judge's chambers, where the decision was announced, to the county jail.

With the prisoner was his wife, Mrs. Haas, who had been waiting for the news. She was very calm and seemed to be quite satisfied with the result. She said that she had been told that the judge would grant a new trial, but that she was not sure.

Mr. Haas was questioned by a Journal reporter as to how he felt about the decision. He said that he was not surprised. He said that he had been told that the judge would grant a new trial, but that he was not sure.

A note sent up to the prisoner, requesting an interview or a written statement, came back with the fatal message that he would not give either.

CONVICTED MAN BEGINS FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE IN COURT OF LAST RESORT

"I Have Heard All of the Evidence in This Case, and Taking It Altogether I Am Not Thoroughly Convinced Either as to the Innocence or Guilt of the Defendant," Says the Trial
Judge in Rendering His Decision Friday Morning

ROSSER ASKS JUDGE NOT TO RESIGN UNTIL HE HAS SIGNED THE BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

Case Will Be Carried to Supreme Court, and If That Body
Upholds Judge Roan, Convicted Man Must Pay Penalty
With His Life—Rosser Asks That Judge's Remarks That He Is Not Convinced of Frank's Guilt Be Incorporated in Record

No new trial will be granted to Leo M. Frank, convicted as the murderer of Mary Phagan in the National Pencil factory in Atlanta of April 26, unless the state supreme court sees fit to order it. Judge Roan, the trial judge and still presiding judge over the Fulton superior court, denied the defense's motion for a new trial Friday morning at 10:10 o'clock.

The bill of exceptions will be drawn immediately by the defense, and will be signed by Judge Roan before he leaves the superior court bench for that of the state court of appeals. This bill of exceptions to Judge Roan's ruling will carry the case to the supreme court of Georgia.

It can go no higher than that. If the supreme court affirms Judge Roan's decision, Leo M. Frank will pay the death penalty unless executive clemency is extended to him.

Here is the formal order by Judge Roan upon the documents in the case. It was drawn by Solicitor Dorsey after the judge had announced his decision informally.

"After considering the able and foregoing motion, and affidavits submitted by the defense and the state, the motion for a new trial is hereby overruled and denied. This October 31, 1913. (Signed) L. S. Roan, Judge Superior Court Fulton County, Georgia."

NOT CONVINCED OF GUILT

In making his informal announcement Judge Roan stated: "I have heard all the evidence in this case, and taking it altogether I am not thoroughly convinced either as to the innocence or guilt of the defendant. The jury having passed upon this case to the supreme court, I cannot do otherwise than let the case go to the supreme court."

"I consider it my duty to overrule this motion," Judge Roan said.

Luther Z. Rosser asked and said, "I hope your honor will not resign from this bench until you have a chance to certify to the bill of exceptions which we will carry the case to the supreme court."

"How long will that be?" asked the judge.

"Twenty minutes," the defense would try to draw his bill some time Friday.

ALLEGED "DIPS" NABBED AT WINECOFF OPENING

Quartet of Suspects Trapped in Spectacular Manner by Amateur Slaughter

The spectacular capture of three alleged professional gamblers, who were caught in the act of opening the new Hotel Wincoff Thursday night to a large, which the management did not anticipate or relish, and incidentally it frightened several women and created a stir about the hotel that was not quieted until after the city police had removed themselves and their prisoners to headquarters.

D. B. Gilbert, a fire insurance adjuster who lives at the Aragon, was responsible for the capture of the men. In Mason recently, he says, he lost $100 from his pockets on a crowded street car. At the Wincoff Thursday night he recognized the men, he says, and notified the management, and was told that numerous consultants already had been made of pockets having been picked in the hotel. The police were called upon for assistance, and Mr. Gilbert started through the hotel to locate the men again. Plain Clothes Officers Moore and Patrick were assigned to work with him, and were stationed on the third floor of the hotel.

NABBED BY ELEVATOR.
Gilbert found his men on the fourth floor. He followed them to the elevator and entered it with them. He whispered to the elevator boy, "Do as I tell you, now." A moment later, the car having started, he said aloud: "Shut the emergency door. These men are pickpockets. Don't let anybody out."

Three fashionably attired women who had been in the elevator when the party entered were thrown nearly into hysterics by the excitement of the moment.

"Let us out!" they screamed. "Let us out of here!"

"Just a moment," said Mr. Gilbert. "We want to hand these men over to the police. Nobody will be hurt."

When the door was opened on the third floor officers Moore and Patrick were waiting. The suspected quartet made a rush through the opening and into the street. Gilbert caught two of them, and Mr. Gilbert caught a third. The fourth escaped, according to the statement and capturing the first door, where he disappeared in the crowd.

At the three men and their prisoners reached the lobby, where Mr. Gilbert, who was forty-eight, of Birmingham, O. E. Peterson, who was thirty-eight, and H. E. Bernard, of Louisville, Kentucky, appeared to be not more than twenty-four years old. In his pocket was found a money order receipt for $100, payable to Mrs. J. C. Frankenburg at a New York address. It was assumed from this document that the man who had been in the elevator when the party entered was the man who had been in the elevator when the party entered.

The detectives' search of the prisoners developed money and some other valuable stones from false pockets in their clothes. They already had been in the elevator when the party entered at the station sergeant's office. In the last search the prisoners maintained a stolid silence. Previously they had asserted that they were traveling men and guests of the "manager."

The prisoners are dressed fashionably. They are to be arraigned in police court Friday. The Atlanta police have communicated with the Mason police in an effort to trace other associates to the men.

SEARCH FOR GIRL.
Meanwhile the Atlanta officers are searching for the fourth man, who was captured by the police and who escaped when the capture was made and for a young girl, who was in the elevator with the men. The men were indicated by letters found in their pockets.

Several people who claimed to have lost valuables from their pockets during the past ten days or so at various places, called at police headquarters on Friday in endeavors to identify the prisoners as their owners. One man said he lost a pocketbook with $125 in it another lost a diamond stud; others' losses varied. No one identified the men positively.

Feltz, of the court of appeals, becomes secretary to Judge Fish. Judge Feltz has appointed Marion H. Allen, of Mississippi, to be his secretary. Mr. Allen is the son of State Senator John T. Allen.

Fastest of Speed Kings Dashed to Death as Car Races 114 Miles an Hour

Percy Lambert Was Trying to Set New Record When Tire Burst—His Machine Somersaulted and Driver Was Crushed Beneath Wreckage

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Oct. 31.—Percy Lambert, holder of many world's automobile speed records, was killed on the Brooklands test track today while trying to break the one-hour record.

Lambert was traveling at a speed of over 114 miles an hour, when one of his tires burst. The machine somersaulted and then shot over the front of the car. The driver was crushed to death beneath the wreckage. He died on the way to the hospital.

On Monday of this week Lambert captured the fifty-mile world record, covering the distance in 27 minutes 2.2 seconds. On February 15, on the same track, he established a new record for one hour, 191.4 miles.

It is uncertain how soon the judge's condition will warrant removal to his home in Macon.

COMB SAGE TEA IN LIFELESS, GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a little of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When her hair fell out or took on that faded, faded or even turned gray, she used a little of this simple mixture with applied with wonderful effect. By adding to any hair cream or hair oil, a little of this simple mixture will keep the hair from falling out, and will keep it soft and shining.

A well-known "downy" drugstore says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and so gently that nobody can tell it has been applied. It is so very pleasant, too, and simply demands a comb or wet brush and a little of it, through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By moving the gray hair (disappears) and another in, it takes two. It is repeated to the end of the hair and back, and so on, until the hair is all darkened. (Adv.)

RAILROADS ARE UPHELD IN MILEAGE BOOK CASE

Commerce Commission Sustains Ruling Coupons Must Be Exchanged for Tickets

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The rule of inconvertible mileage books on the railroad was upheld by the Commerce Commission today in a decision rendered in a case brought by the Southern Railway and other roads operating in the south, which requires that mileage shall be exchanged for tickets instead of being used directly for checking of baggage or for transportation on trains.

The decision was reached in a proceeding prompted by a complaint of the railroad commission of South Carolina directed against the practice of the Southern Railway and other roads operating in the south, which requires that mileage shall be exchanged for tickets instead of being used directly for checking of baggage or for transportation on trains.

The legislature of South Carolina passed an act requiring railroad companies operating in that state to receive coupons from mileage books on trains for transportation and for the checking of baggage.

A similar act passed by the Georgia legislature was vetoed by the governor. The railroad thereupon adopted a regulation that coupons from mileage books would not be accepted in exchange for a ticket for a journey wholly within the state of South Carolina.

A new form of mileage book was issued by the state of South Carolina. The state authorities complained to the commission that the South Carolina rule being discriminatory against it. In its decision, however, the commission ruled that the complaint "was based upon a desire to secure discriminatory advantages." In the holder of the commission, and of Commissioner Marlow, who prepared the regulations, such inconveniences are caused to travelers by the use of the exchange mileage books can be removed easily by increased efficiency in station operation.

LYRIC—"The Third Degree."
BRIEF—"An Orphan's Prayer."

There is as much real, pure comedy in the bill of vanderbilt that is this week's attraction at the Lyric, as could find in a combination of entertainment anywhere.

The entire foundation of the bill is comedy. It starts with something funny and finishes with a scream of laughter because of the antics of a troupe of outlaws in a football match.

The big hit of the bill and one of the real hits of the season has been credited to Clayton White and company presented George V. Roberts, one of the comedy, "Charlie."

The bill for last week is one of the strongest as well as one of the most interesting. Frank Sheridan, the star character actor who has recently come into vaudeville, will appear in a play by Richard Harding Davis, supported by a splendid company.

Charles Klein's intensely interesting play, "The Third Degree," is scoring an undoubted hit this week at the Lyric.
Miss Scott, who plays the principal role of the young wife who moves heaven and earth to get a prominent lawyer to defend her husband who she firmly believes is innocent of the crime that the police have fastened on him through the third degree, is a young actress who will certainly make her mark on the stage. The badge of the company must all be commended for their painstaking and clever portrayal of the role entrusted to them.

With the remaining four performances this week the Jewell Kelley company will close its tenth week of successful operation at the Bijou. "An Orphan's Prayer," the interesting comedy drama that has held the boards this week, has made a good impression and drawn large audiences the entire week.
The company has in preparation for next week the fourth sensational comedy drama, "A Girl of the Streets," featuring Miss Rose Morris in the role of the street waif.

Seats are now selling at the Atlanta for the engagement of Mahel and Edith Tallafiero in "Young Wisdom," the new play which has been received with such intense enthusiasm in Washington and Baltimore. The sisters Tallafiero come here from Washington, where they are appearing this week. The play deals with the love affairs of two students and each of the stars has a fine opportunity to display her talent. The comedy is one of the richest in humor staged in recent years and is sure to make a fine impression here. The engagement is for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a Wednesday matinee.

Dockstad-Primrose Performance Delights Packed Audience Thursday Night—They Are "All There" and Then Some

Your old-fashioned theatergoer who recalls "the good old days" and bemoans the changes from the mellow plays of yore to the shallow flippancy or suggestive sensationalism of the present age, this one should have been if he was not, present Thursday night at the Atlanta theater when Lew Dockstadter and George Primrose brought back genuine old-time minstrelsy to Atlanta.

There are no remarkable innovations in the show, no desperate attempts to win applause by the unusual and the novel. The show stands on the solid intrinsic merit of the best of songs, both new and familiar, the funny jokes, limber dancers, and unrivaled singers. It is the people, not the scenery, that makes the Dockstadter-Primrose show.

White Primrose and Dockstadter's minstrelsmen at times of the vande-willian in that many of the show's features were at one time in the same circumstances that plays Atlanta, this characteristic adds rather than detracts to what may be deemed up as an ideal minstrel show.

Primrose and Dockstadter themselves were welcomed Thursday night by many old friends. Lew is the same old Lew as of yore, a little heavier, a little faster, a little funnier. He had Uncle George out Thursday night, and Uncle George brought down the house in accordance with custom. Lew announced confidentially to his audience that Uncle George would be a guest date for the next majority race in Atlanta, and outlined his platform. It was look, sturd, and was told with all of Lew's inimitable and drooliest waggery.
TENEYSON'S PRIMER.

And George Primrose? George is something like that old bird of Tennyson. And not only does he go on forever, apparently, but his flow appears to be as equable and pleasing as it was when he first came to Atlanta. George Primrose has made some progress during a classic, and although "his hardly possible that George can shake a foot as actively as he did fifteen years back, yet to many in Thursday night's audience it seemed as if that graceful dancer beyond the silver of the footlights was the same fellow that was so popular here years ago.

The first act of Primrose & Dockstad-ter's minstrel is typical of the old-style minstrel. "Happy Jack" Lambert is the funniest of funny men, and his antics are a rather cheap but most effective. In the person of Harry Sellers assumes peculiar proportions.

THAT COUNTRY BAND.
Four stars, Sidney, Webster, Merville and Starr, were extraordinarily funny in their burlesque on a country band playing the first time. The grotesque things they did with their mouths and their vocal chords had the audience writhing in chuckles. Another good feature was Tom Brown and his satirical sketch, once a popular vaudeville act, and an ideal number for a minstrel show.
All the voices were good, and blended perfectly in the old home songs and the popular rags and ballads of the day.
From grand opera to the best of comic songs their repertoire ran the gamut, and everybody went home with "Ten-nessen Moon" humming through their heads.

It was a great show, such a show as can be found only where two such jovial fellows as Lew Dockstadter and George Primrose are together. Come back, Lew! Come back, George! You'll always find a welcome at Atlanta's front ways. We like you and we like your show.

Primrose & Dockstadter's show will be seen at the Atlanta theater Friday night, Saturday matinee and Saturday night. This is the longest engagement they will play in any southern city.

HOW TO TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR HAIR

Nothing spoils your good looks so much as bony hair—straggly, discolored, harsh. Noting adds to good looks so much as beautiful hair—soft, silky, wavy and glossy. No matter how beautiful your hair is now, you can improve the good looks by using Harmon's Hair Beautifier. If your hair is bony and stiff and greasy, stiffer, glossier, more beautiful it will be. It also makes it easier to put up and helps to "stay put." Its rich rose color hides the unpleasant, oily smell of the hair. Harmon's Hair Beautifier is right named—it beautifies the hair.

Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It entails no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep your hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmon's Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich bathing that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, loosening a quick and thorough cleansing. Washes the hair just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments.
Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no scum or dandruff, but a refreshing cleansing.

Both preparations come in elegant, very ornamental bottles, with sparkling tops. Harmon's Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmon's Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold in this community only at our store—The Beauty Shop —one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the Mr. Harmon's laboratory in Boston, where the many celebrated hair-care money Perfumes and Toilet Preparations are made.—(Adv.)

PARIS

A Fine Array of Union SuitsJunior Department---Third Floor

It may be that we give more specialized attention to Junior Suits than do most stores; it may be that we go to smarter makers; the fact is that the Junior Suits we have gathered here seem a bit more for the money than is usually found.

It begins to show in suits at $15.00.
As sturdy as they can be made—the materials are oftenest Scotch mixture weaves—they are along trim lines, plain, unadorned, youthful in line; such suits that wear and look well all the while.

School-going girls could hardly be better suited.
Then come the novelties at $19.75, $21.75, $25.00, up to those at $40.00 that are much like those little Miss Paris likes.

These are serges, corduroys, velvets, Scotch weaves, with coats that are cutaways, or blouses with wide sashes, or back belts and with trimmings in the form of vestees, and Oriental embroideries, with skirts draped smartly and gracefully.

It would seem there is a suit for every Junior Miss of Atlanta.

These Are The Junior Coats That Are "Taking"

Bright, attractive in fabric, in line, in trimming.
Hosts of them, to meet all requirements.
School coats, luxurious limousine coats. Boucles, zibelines, chinchillas, cloths, velvets. Three-quarter lengths, often with a belt that is placed—by a smarter than the usual maker—very low.

Sport Coats that brighten the football crowds.
It's a showing of coats meant to settle happily the coat question of all who turn to it.

Prices go gradually—for these—from $7.50 through $8.75, $10.00 to $35.00.

WASH DRESSESAt 98c*At 49c

Sizes six to fourteen years.
See them then compare them with those you have bought at $1.25.
The gingham, the trimmings, the stitching, the whole "get up."
We pause while you turn those $1.25 ones over in your mind.
Which suffer?

Sizes two to six years.
Choose from gingham and percales in light and dark stripes, checks and plain colors. Piped prettily with bands of contrasting colors.
Wonderful values!
One marvels at the neatness with which they are made. And they are priced at 49c.

An Infants' Store That Is Full Grown

If anything for the baby is left out, we wonder what it is!
As one fond mother expressed it the other day "It is such a pleasure to shop here."

Mothers find we have been just as anxious to get pretty things for the little dear as even they could.

Let's begin with THE BONNETS AND CAPS. Bonnets of velvets and corduroys, soft little frames for chubby, cheery faces, in black and colors, with "heaps" of ribbons, and white faille bonnets. These at $1.25 to $5.50.

Machine made caps at 50c to $3.50, fixed up with dainty laces and rosettes; then come those of faille and crepe de chine, with hand-work making them even prettier, at $1.25 to $3.50.

The hand-made Caps (French) are priced from $1.25 to $5.00.

Infants' mittens, 20c to 75c.

Infants' booties, 15c to $1.50. Oh, so warm!

Crochet saques, many novel ideas here, 35c to $5.00.

Wrappers of cashmere and silk begin at $2.00 and go to $10.00.

Flannellette wrappers are 50c to $1.00.

Infants' cashmere, silk and Bedford cord Coats, long and short, begin at $3.00 and do not let up until the daintiest hand-embroidered, silk-lined affair at $25.00 is reached.

New dresses, long and short, machine and hand-made, will greet you tomorrow; these priced from 50c to $25.00.

NEW!$2.00 W. B. Corsets $1.69*$1.50 W. B. Corsets $1.00

Note the word new.

The corsets are fresh from the factory this week.

But seeing them will prove this.

Women who have ever worn a W. B. Corset need not be told its virtues.

There are many.

But they will see more in these new models.

Medium low bust, lace and embroidery trimmed, extra long skirt, six hose supporters, free hips.

Coutils are the materials; heavier in the $1.69 corset.

How can we sell them under price?

We are!

Brassieres 25cCutting Gloves 50c to $1.50

Splendid values, seldom to be had at such a price. Yoke neatly trimmed with embroidery.

How to Enter

This contest is restricted to people residing in the states of Georgia, Alabama, North and South Carolina, Florida and Mississippi.

A payment on subscription to The Atlanta Journal of from $1.10 to $4.50 for the Daily and Sunday edition, or from $1.50 to $4.50 for the Semi-Weekly edition of The Journal, entitles a contestant to submit a solution of the puzzle. The amount of money paid will cover the subscription price for the paper, according to the regular rate, whether by city delivery or by mail.

AS MANY DIFFERENT SOLUTIONS MAY BE SUBMITTED AS THE CONTESTANT DESIRES, UPON SUBMITTING AN ADDITIONAL PAYMENT WITH EACH ONE, BUT NOT MORE THAN $5.00 CAN BE PAID WITH ANY ONE SOLUTION.

It is not necessary to pay the same amount with each solution if more than one be submitted. As the main prizes have an added value according to what is paid in on subscription with the winning solution, contestants should familiarize themselves with the dividend schedule before sending in their subscription and solution.

Remit by check, money order, registered letter or in one or two-out stamps. Solutions unaccompanied by cash subscriptions will not be registered. The contest is open to both old and new subscribers within the territory designated.

Whatever is paid, whether on one or a number of solutions, will apply on a continuous subscription to The Atlanta Journal. No one associated with The Journal in any way will be allowed to enter this contest.

Territory and Subscription Price

Deciding Ties

In case of ties, a second puzzle will be presented. This puzzle will be practicable and solvable. Only those tied will be permitted to solve puzzle No. 2. No money will have to accompany the solution. The second puzzle will be printed but twice, and those tied will have a week in which to solve it. Mail subscribers at a distance, if tied, will be allowed a week from the time they receive the second puzzle, the time to be determined by postmarks.

In case of other ties, a third puzzle, also perfectly solvable, will be presented. It will be subject to the same conditions as the second. The second and third puzzles will only be used in case of a tie. Their purpose will be merely to decide ties, so that in the event there is a tie, the prizes will be awarded without having to divide them, or without resorting to chance.

However, only three puzzles will be presented, and in the seemingly impossible event of still another tie, the prizes tied for will be equally divided between those tying.

If there are no ties, there will be only one puzzle.

No prizes will be distributed until the contest is finally decided.

Special Conditions

Should there be any ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded to those sending less correct solutions. That is, if two people tied on the absolutely correct answer, they would have to solve the second puzzle to determine which was entitled to the first prize and which to the second prize. Then the one who sent the next best answer to the first puzzle would be entitled to the third prize. This rule will apply generally.

While the winning of a prize does not depend upon the time the solution was registered, the puzzle is more or less elusive, and the best thing to do is to begin counting at once. Send in your solution, and if you find later you have made a mistake, send in another. There is no limit to the number of different solutions that may be registered.

All those entering the contest will, as a condition, be required to abide by the ruling of the Contest Manager. In the event of any questions arising, the Contest Manager, if he deems it wise, may appoint a committee to assist him in deciding them, and those entering the contest do so with the understanding that such decision is final.

Cut out this blank smoothly and send it with your solution and money.

Puts in Bid to Carry
Mail 3,000 Miles in Dead of Arctic Winter
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A bid for carrying the mails 3,000 miles in the dead of an arctic winter over the mountains of northern Alaska when the snow lies so deep there scarcely a bottom was received today by the post-office department. The bid came from Charles D. Brower, of Point Barrow, Alaska, the most northern postoffice on the continent and a close rival for northern honors with any in the world, however, wants to carry the mail from Point Barrow to Kotzebue sound, 300 miles southwest. The man who gets the contract must make three round trips each winter when the seas are frozen and transportation by dog sled and sledges alone is possible in that region.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Gray entertained at a Halloween supper and dancing party Thursday evening at their home on Peachtree road, the occasion being in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Inman Gray, whose wedding was a brilliant event of the past month in Nashville, Tenn.

The grounds and approach to Graystone were illuminated with rows of colored lights which threw a weird radiance over the scene and gave the suggestion of Halloween witch was continued in the interior decorations of the handsome home.

The enclosed porch had an artistic mural decoration of willow and southern bamboo which was used in delicate tracery against the white canvas walls and here sumptuous heads of light and jack-o-lanterns illuminated the scene.

Inside the hallway the newest post which was transferred from the occasion to an awe-inspiring witch, met the guests as they entered the stairs. The drawing room where the guests were seated was a festive scene, handsome palms presented a background for the beautifully groomed festive party and feathery yellow chrysanthemums arranged in artistic vases added their own added beauty to the scene.

The Evening Story

Miss Lennie was hovering on the confines of middle age and she was torn between the desire to look as young as she could and the fear of ridicule. No, every woman past eighteen knows that when one of the staid-looking "mamma" bonnets that she forever renounces all claims to youth, and if she be a sister it is the same as an avowal that she has laid her hopes of matrimony away with the old hat.

So it was that Miss Lennie had a heavy heart that spring morning when she decided that she must have something new with which to cover her head before another Sunday. Even in her own mind she was resolved not to name the new head covering until she had come to a decision. Her married sister, with whom she lived, had worn bonnets for ten years. When Miss Lennie appealed to her she looked hard in the effort to decide the question.

"Well," she said at last, "I guess you hope to have a bonnet this time, for then it will do for two seasons. These are high his year, and they'll be higher next year if they keep putting new capotes and fandangos on that court house. You can't stay out of bonnets much longer, my dear."

"You aren't a very young woman as yet," she said, "and the color of the hair is not so bad."

Miss Lennie sighed and in a few minutes started down the street toward Mrs. Carnegie's millinery emporium.

Mrs. Carnegie laid down the stage she was covering with white tulle and went to her dressing room. Miss Lennie barely had time to announce that she had dropped in to see the spring styles when somebody behind her said: "Hello, Miss Lennie, how are you?"

Miss Lennie wheeled around and Mrs. Carnegie laughed, saying: "You are doing in my shop, Mr. Latham?"

"Just saw Miss Lennie coming in and thought I would help her pick out a bonnet," the unblinking Latham responded.

Miss Lennie turned the color of the roses in the show case. Really, Mr. Latham was very forward. He had only hoped in the previous year, and Miss Lennie had not met him more than three or four times, but he was assuming that he could help her in this delicate matter. But she remembered that he was a widower and that they are ever reputed to be forward with women.

"That's a pretty bonnet over there," Mr. Latham said, advancing a white tulle hat on which the feathers were piled high and where silver bonnets gleamed, "I think it would suit you."

"Try that on, Miss Lennie," and before she had time to answer he had placed it on her head and stood off to survey the effect.

Mrs. Carnegie announced it.

"Pull that the very thing for you," Mr. Latham admitted in his big voice. "You look pretty as a pink in it. Doesn't she, Mrs. Carnegie?"

In truth, Miss Lennie was pretty always in her girlish days, and she was not used to having compliments flung at her in this offhand way. She was protesting: "It's too young for me."

"Come here expecting to buy a bonnet," she said, "and you're saying it's too young for you?"

"I'm not," she said, "but I'm not used to being called 'too young' by a woman of my age," but she lacked the courage.

"None of your business," Mrs. Carnegie said, "but I'll tell you, Mr. Latham, that's a bonnet."

Miss Lennie put it on with the air of doing a virtuous act. "I think that this would be more suitable for me, don't you, Mrs. Carnegie?"

"Well, it does look well," Mrs. Carnegie said, for she never admitted that any of her creations were not becoming to all customers. "But I think I rather like the feather hat."

"Of course, you do," Mr. Latham interposed. "This bonnet looks as if it was trimmed with the plumage of a bird's old hearse."

"Well, perhaps I could wear a touch of color," Miss Lennie said, "but I don't want anything too young." She glanced appealingly at Mr. Latham, as if she hoped he would contradict her statement.

"And he did. 'Too young. Well, when you get to my age you'll want to get round things. I was fifty-five last Monday, and I haven't gone into bonnets yet. I guess you'd better take that hat, Miss Lennie, or it will be grabbed up by somebody else. I'll carry the box home for you.'"

Miss Lennie had not the slightest intention of buying that frivolous hat, which would never outlast a single season, but since before she knew it she was being led to the door by Mr. Latham, she was going up the street together, and Mrs. Carnegie had come back to her triumph.

Mr. Latham swung the bonnet in a careless way, which sent cold shivers down her spine, but she enjoyed herself. Nevertheless, when they came to a mud puddle he told her not to get her feet wet, quite as if she had been a child. Indeed, Mr. Latham seemed to regard her as even ridiculously young, although Miss Lennie was used to be treated as one who verges on middle age. But then he was a good sixteen years older than she after all.

When they reached her gate he said he believed he would go in and rest on the front porch a while. He sat down on the step and Miss Lennie sat up very straight in a rustic chair. Now that she was home again she began to feel that she had been a foolish virgin to buy the hat. She looked so troubled that Mr. Latham asked her what the matter was.

"I don't think I ought to have taken this hat," she said. "Then, in a burst of confidence, she went on: 'This morning sister and I were talking it over and we both concluded that I had better go into bonnets. They don't change shape so much as hats and I am as high—and—and—well, I'm quite a ways past thirty—quite an old maid, you know, and I'm afraid folks will think I'm trying to look young and—and—'

Miss Lonnie, Hat

"Say, yes, Lonnie."

"If I could. Perhaps I'm abrupt, but I mean it. Besides, I want you to wear that hat we picked out together."

He laughed so heartily that Miss Lennie liked him better than ever.

"But I haven't known you very long—I don't know what to say. Of course, I am sure that it is a right hat."

Just then she caught a glimpse of Mrs. Curtis lurking in the shadow of a lace curtain. She had seen the holding of hands. Only an engagement now would save Miss Lennie from public scandal.

"Yes, I'll marry you, Mr. Latham, if you really want me to," she said, smiling at him.

"That's right," he said, giving her hand a last squeeze and taking up the hat box. "Now let's go in and show your sister our wedding bonnet."

"Hat, you mean?" Miss Lennie corrected. She flung a look of defiance back at the window of Mrs. Curtis and followed him into the house.

WHY ARE Nemo Corsets A BOON TO WOMANKIND?

THEY GUARD YOUR FIGURE HEALTH & PURSE

"Me-Too" Corsets Do You Know Them?

UNTIL about five years ago, almost no corsets were made with elastic gorges and bands. Why? Because no elastic existed that could be trusted to wear well.

About that time we invented Lastikops Webbing—the FIRST durable elastic; later, we invented Lastikops Cloth, the ONLY OTHER durable elastic fabric.

We began to make corsets with these new fabrics. Their success was instant. Imitators were compelled to copy our models, as best they could; BUT they had to use, and STILL USE, the same old unreliable elastics. They can get no other.

Don't waste your money on these "Me-Too" corsets, no matter what anybody tells you or how much they may look like the genuine Nemo. Find the trademark, "LASTIKOPS"—it's your only safeguard.

The Nemo "Lasticure-Back," shown in this photo, is being imitated by nearly all "Me-Too" manufacturers, here and abroad.

THE DIFFERENCE is that the Nemo feature is made of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth, which outlasts the corset, while the imitations have just the same old elastic you used to get in hose supporters—likely to "give out" in no time.

This No. 326, by the way, is a wonderful corset for $3.00. Has comfortable low back; skirt is so long that it would be uncomfortable if the Lasticure-Back didn't make it flexible. Self-binding, low back; for all full figures.

Other Nemo Corsets, For All Figures—$2.00 to $10.00.

The woman who doesn't know all about the Nemo has something to learn that should demand her immediate attention.

Coach Heisman Gives Tech Students Rousing "Ginger" Talk

Tech Eleven Is Openly Roasted

Coach Heisman Publicly Tells His Team They Are Hopeless, and Lack Tech Spirit

BY JIM MOORE.

It is very seldom that a coach gets up before the entire student body and tells them they are the rottenest bunch in the world, and that they have about as much chance of seeing a winning team at their school as the proverbial marmalade, but this is what Coach Heisman did Thursday night, after the Tech team had put up another afternoon of rotten football. To say that the team is going good and that they have the pep and all that kind of stuff would sound very well to the ear, but the school would not be sweet to the supporters after a defeat Saturday. The Tech team was very little if any real spirit, and the student body is not dead, but is so near it that there can be seen very little difference.

Therefore there seems to be very little chance of the Yellowjackets doing much better than the team goes down in defeat as the result of the overconfidence of the supporters and the student body. This article is written for the purpose of view that to apprise the public and the supporters of the team in what condition the team really is in at the present time. The team is not wholly to blame, but too much must not be expected of them in the game Saturday for they are not at the present time equal to the emergency.

It was thought that after the showing Wednesday afternoon in scrimmage, there was a chance for the team to get out of course there is always a fighting chance of a twelfth-hour recovery, but at the present speaking what it takes Tech has not got. There will be a game meeting Friday in the evening, but just what good it will do can not be counted upon. The team is in good condition, not a man being injured at this time. They are trained in a good point and know football as they should. It might be remarked that they know more football than they do.

Where there is breath there is hope, and possibly the team will get together and make a good showing after all. The team are all game in the core, know the game, have experience and are willing that they lack the push and team spirit of the team of last season, and nothing but push will ever get any team over the top.

If by any hook or crook there could be inoculated into the team about three pounds of real Tech spirit, the results would be marvelous. The team would be all willing as day before, but they are young and they know that it means to fight all the way, and therefore they are not willing to be reminded before it can be said that Georgia Tech has a chance to win. Football means more than a bunch of boys with a lot of alpha and omega in their heads. Football means that the fight on the push and to show itself as he plays a good or a bad game. If a man plays a hard game and does not give up, the chances are that he will make good in the game, and because spirit moves the world and nothing less than spirit can get the Tech variety to the position that it should hold in the athletic standing of the world.

Virginia in Shape For Vandy Battle
CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Oct. 31.—The University of Virginia Tech eleven, which meets the Vanderbilt university team here tomorrow in one of the most important games of the season for southern gridiron, will finish its preparation for the contest with a fast signal drill this afternoon. All of the variety players finished the practice without injuries and today were reported to be in the best of shape to meet the strong Nashville team. Virginia coaches have given special attention to the line men during practice this week, as a result of the forward weakness in the game with the University of Georgia at Atlanta last Saturday.

Special attention has been given also to the forward pass by the Virginia coaches this week and it will be called into frequent use in the anticipated ground game in tomorrow's game.

Georgia Driven By Cunningham

Coach Worked Team Fiercely for N. C. Game—Malone, Logan and Conklin on Injured List

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 31.—The University of Georgia team will meet the team from the University of North Carolina on Saturday, and all fans expect to see a battle worth watching. Those two teams, for Georgia, for Georgia has a very strong team, as was shown in last Saturday's game with Virginia. North Carolina is rated as having the best team in their history.

The Tar Heels have a team composed of players who are a star in their position, and not only this, but they have a coach as much as Coach Cunningham, who has men on the team. Each man has his individual coach and there is one head coach who simply furnishes the plays and formations and handled the team as a whole.

At Georgia there is only one head coach, and two assistant coaches, Ketrone and Peacock. But in these the Georgia men have unbounded confidence and rightly so, for each year that Cunningham has been at Georgia he has turned out a winning team.

These coaches have done their utmost to round the team into shape by Saturday. "Cunny" has given his men quite a number of new plays for this game. Yesterday afternoon the team, and Black eleven had a hard signal drill. They came on the field at 2 o'clock and began warming up and started signal drill about 3:15. Then it was a continual drive until 5:30, and when a team comes out for three hours on a stretch it amounts to some work out, too. But the Georgia coaches know what it takes to get into shape, for they expect as hard a game with the Tar Heels as they had with the Old Dominion team, and those who witnessed that combat can coach for it better.

BRAINS COUNT IN REMAINING GRID GAMES

Straight Football Will Be Supplanted by Coach's Real Stuff

In the remaining football games of the season, both in the east and the south there will be very little playing of what is generally known as straight football. That is, the teams will not depend solely upon their heavy lines and their ability to charge with the ball. This method of play has been in use so far this season, because the battle to win was not of enough importance to warrant an opening up of anything, but from now on one game means as much as the other and the loss of one game means that the defeated team is relegated to the "wait till next year" class. Some seasons a team goes through the entire schedule without losing a game, but straight line backs and possibly a few end runs, but on account of the general equality of all teams this year the brain will have to be used more than ever before.

Strength this season is equally divided generally, and when two teams line up for play any follower of the game will notice that there is very little difference in the apparent weights and heights of the men. This condition makes the game a great deal more interesting than has ever before, because there are fewer walk-aways and generally the score is not settled until the last minute of play.

Take the Virginia-Georgia game, for instance. There was very little difference in the general makeup of the two teams. Georgia, according to her weight reports, was twenty pounds to the man under the Virginia crew, but the difference did not look to be so great.

Needless to say, the younger has turned down Master Smith's offer with thanks. He is counting on playing with Eastern's club next spring in the scholastic series.

at. The Georgia men seemed almost as tall and as broad. The final touch-down was not made until about thirty minutes before the game was over and then it was made on a small demonstration of just what Virginia could do if it became necessary.

When two teams are evenly weighted and the same amount to anything when out for the tricks of the trade. Under such conditions, the game becomes a matter of the brain of the coach and the generalship of the signal caller. A coach may have the best brain and have his team coached to a fine point, but if his field captain, with the ball in his own territory, calls a forward pass and lets the other side intercept it, why that is a matter of non-sense.

But all things being equal, the games run now on will not be players' games, but will depend mainly on how well they have been coached, and on the trick plays they are able to execute.

In the coming Sewanee-Tech game there is very little if any difference in the weights of the men. Both have their own half-backs, such as McWhorter, Ray, Ryan and Newell. The season ought to mark the beginning of a wider spread for the national college sport.

There will be fewer injuries and better results will be gained all around by the style of play that is just now being percolated to where its true beauty is revealed.

In the big Virginia-Vanderbilt game the same will be true. Both teams are about equal in weight and speed and the chance is that McWhorter's crew will get by on his brain work and cunning.

Other team is asleep.

BUDDING PHENOMS.

(Re-entered by special dispensation.)
Little Heinie, sturdy youth,
Cracked his baby brother's tooth;
Then he twisted off an ear.
While the baby screamed with fear.
Said his father, with a cackle,
"Won't be making a corking tackle!"

Little Baby Jackson crept Straight to where his father slept,
And, with swift descending blows,
Soon carved in his mouth and nose.
Said the old man, "That's a plenty;
Some day you should hit three-twenty."

Little Willie with a crack Broke his brother's ribs and back;
Hurled his sister through the door—
Threw her from the seventh floor.
Said his father, wrapped in fumes,
"Walter Camp must hear of this."

There are a few instances here and there where the ballplayer gets the worst of it—where the magnate is at fault. But fighting no battle for the magnate all this late flurry about the player being a white slave or a baseball seer is all to the punk. There is quite a difference between receiving justice and having the remainder of the universe low down and worship as the athlete draws nigh.

We fear just now that the player isn't going to be content to try and get his exact due, but a good bit more. In which case he will likely arise some April morning with a fine arm, a 340 eye and a net monthly income of $47.50.

THE FINAL COURT.

The final court to sit upon the case of both player and magnate will be the public. Those who pay the tax at the turnstile are the ones in the end who rule the game.

If other magnate player goes too far the squeaking will be uttered and complete, once the inner details are set up in print.

There is considerable talk about abolishing the world's series, but for some queer intangible reason the American league appears to be fairly well satisfied with things as they are.

BACK WITH ANOTHER.

Furthermore, to those leading us for introducing that "high brow and effete game" of golf in these dispatches we offer the following—in addition to Giants and Athletics using it for training purposes, also Messrs. McFarland and Ritchie—the Yale football team has taken up the pastime on off days.

With baseball, football and the prize ring turning to it, where and wherefore the effectiveness?

Willie Ritchie has never taken the count of "ten" in the ring, but is golf they say it's his favorite figure. Some days he sets a string of time before he gets off his game and goes to sleep.

Cemell can afford to take it easy all this week. She doesn't have to meet any team Saturday but Harvard.

PUTTING FAME BY.

When I observe some husky guard sitting awkwardly a fullback's ear. As out across the field there flugs The chorus of a tushy other, I rise and add my cheer to theirs, Blessing again my blooming' luck, To think they are not cheering me For having made that twelve-yard buck.

Summing up the complete status from press dispatches, we find that Draw has about decided to get rid of every member of his club with the exception of Mathewson. This should be cheering news to Mathewson, he will have an even chance to win in his next world series start. In his last five world series games Matty has allowed one earned run, of the five he has garnered but one victory, and he won that with his own wallop.

Almost two weeks have passed since Langford and Jeanette have split. But perhaps they intend to double the bill next week to round up the average.

Once in a while now a line slips into print about Jack Johnson. But is only a line, set in aqua, without as much as a ten-penny foot. The snake has about vanished into the air.

We have a bale of spare time to waste, but not enough to try and give what an eleven, beaten on a muddy field, would have done on a dry one. There isn't time enough left on the calendar for that, so far as our particular taste is to be served or catered to.

Lookout Club Begins Weeding-Out Process

(By Associated Press to the Journal.)
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 21.—President O. B. Andrews of the Lookout club, has already begun disposing of surplus material. Lewis Williams being the first man to be decorated with the order of the can. Other deals, including the release of a pitcher, are being made within the next few days.
From the present outlook, "Moore" Schenck will have nothing whatever to do as pitcher of the Lookouts until the opening of the training season, beyond the acquisition of a pitcher to replace "Red Grant." Andrews will have the club fairly well weeded out before the season arrives. "Moore" is expected to leave the city during the latter part of November. It is understood that he will take up his abode here, but he has no relatives or ties to hold him in the east. Several college "chums" of the new pilot also reside in this city and he will be an added inducement.

Rhodes Scholars Are Stars in Track Meet

(By Associated Press.)
OXFORD, England, Oct. 21.—The American Rhodes scholars were prominent Thursday in the athletic meeting of the Oxford freshmen. Norman S. Taber, formerly of Brown university, Providence, won the mile event easily in 4:47.4-5, but was beaten in the 440-yard dash by the South African, Rudd, in 56.1-5 seconds.
O. B. Barnes, formerly of Rutgers college, won the 100-yard dash in 19.1-5 seconds and the 200 yard in 46.1-5 seconds.

Fultz Hopes for Quiet Agreement

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—David L. Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' fraternity, hopes the national commission will grant the demands of the fraternity for revision of the terms of baseball players' contracts without the necessity of a hearing. He said so last night in replying to a statement made by August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, who declared the commission would not deal with Fultz because he was an outsider granted the fraternity's requests without a hearing.
"It would be particularly gratifying to me if the commission granted the fraternity's requests without a hearing," said Fultz. "I have no desire to go before the commission unless I am compelled to take that stand."

Already Dixie League Throws Up the Sponge

(By Associated Press.)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 21.—H. N. Frazier, secretary of the recently organized Dixie Baseball league, stated last night that the promoters of the league had decided to postpone its start until the season of 1915.
The new league was organized several months ago with the intention of placing clubs in the larger cities of the south, the majority of which are now represented in the Southern league. It was proposed to arrange a non-conflicting schedule and to secure the sanction, if possible, of the national association of minor league clubs, but if this failed to operate independently. Mr. Frazier stated that representatives of the new organization would appear before the Southern league directors at their meeting in December in an effort to effect an agreement.

Robertson Let Out for Flirting With Federals

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The unconditional release by the New York Giants of Wilbert Robinson, the veteran coach, was announced last night in an official bulletin issued by President T. J. Leland of the National league. Robinson, 47, was negotiating with Federal league officials to become manager of a team to be placed in Baltimore next season.

Other releases announced by President Leland included: by Fred V. Smith to Boston to replace Fred V. Smith as manager of the Boston Braves; by George F. Suggs, under waiver rule, by New York to Chattanooga; Harry E. McCormick, by Philadelphia to Boston, Pitcher Beck.
